MALARIA AND ITS PREVENTION

Malaria is a kind of fever prevalent all over the place, attacks people of all ages, occurs all the year round.

Malarial fever commences with malaise, headache, frequently accompanied by yawning and stretching chilly sensation radiates from the back bone towards the extremities. The jaws give way to actual chill with shaking body and chattering teeth face pinched and bluish and goose skin. There is desire on the part of the patient to cover himself with all the available wraps. This going on for about one hour, slight relief comes in, but this is soon followed by increasing headache and feeling of intense heat. Now the blankets are thrown off, face becomes flushed, pulse rapid. This fever sometimes become very high, remains elevated for about four to six hours and goes down with sweating. In case of prolonged high temperature the patient becomes unconscious and dies. Cessation of fever without any treatment does not indicate that malaria has died out. Malaria always relapses with exposure to rain, sun and excess of various kinds. As a result of repeated attacks or relapse, one may have bloodlessness, huge enlargement of spleen, loss of weight. Neglect of malaria may bring about despair in life and inability for any work.

Malaria may lead one to extreme poverty, deprive him of his health and happiness. In this country, cultivation is the main source of livelihood, majority of people of the malaria plays it's role or makes it annual toll during the rains, when the agriculturists have very busy time and have to work the whole day in the rain and the sun to earn their livelihood for the whole year. If the adult members of the family get malaria, they cannot work owing relapses and they cannot also leave their ailing children for the sake of work. Not only to speak of agriculturists, but the students, day labourers, businessman, officers, servants all may contract the disease and suffer from frequent relapses and reinfection.

Malaria is caused by a germ—known as malarial parasite, harbouring in the blood stream. There is a species of mosquito, which carry the germ from man to man. When a mosquito bites a malaria patient it sucks the blood infected with malaria germ. These germs undergo certain developments into the gut of the mosquito. This mosquito when bites a healthy man, the germs find their way into the man's blood stream from the mouth (Salivary gland) of the mosquito. If one germ finds its way in the blood stream, it increases gradually into several millions. On the fourteenth day, when our resisting power is defeated by that of the parasite, we go down with fever. But this multiplication does not proceed unchecked. The tendency is for spontaneous recovery to gradually come about, to be followed by a more or less prolonged a febrile period and then by a relapse.

Mosquito breeds in water-lays innumerable eggs from which adult mosquitoes are born and fly away in search of food preferably animal blood. If we search every piece of water we are sure to see at least the larvae of mosquitoes. They float on water sometimes come to the surface and sometimes go down as if play merrily. Collections of stagnant water are suitable for breeding by mosquitoes—such as in puddles, hoof-marks, poles, pond, tank, slowly running streamis, rain pool on grass, broken tins, pots, bottles holding water and bamboo bushes.

PREVENTION.—

1. Remove collection of stagnant water, by suitable drainage, so that the water cannot stand.
2. Fill in the small ponds, well, pools etc.
3. Where filling and drainage is impossible- treat the water with kerosene oil. Soak a rope with kerosene oil and pull it over the surface of the water. This will act as laravaccide. Repeat the process if necessary.
4. Introduce small fishes in tank, cisterns, they will feed on the laravac.
5. Cover all water containers.
6. Remove all rubishes that may hold water such as broken bottles, tin cans, earthen pots.
7. People suffering from malaria must seek proper treatment in hospitals and dispensaries. As they infect mosquitoes and mosquitoes infect others, thus helping the spread of the disease.
8. Protect yourself from mosquito bites by using mosquito nets. Ankles are the favourite site for the biting mosquitoes. Mosquito nets with holes and tears are really mosquito traps and never keep away the biting mosquitoes.

REMEMBER

Mosquitoes are our enemies.

A Malaria patient is a danger to society.

Look for breeding places of mosquitoes and treat them.

Anopheline mosquitoes transmits malaria germs.

Receive proper treatment of malaria.

Instruct our people on malaria and mosquito measures.

Always use mosquito nets.

Makthanga, Aijal Lal,

Collections towards the Memorial to late Major W.
H. Tilbury, M. C., A. C. S. for the month of May 1933

Major A. G. McCall, I. C. S., Superintendent, Lushai
Hills.....Rs 50/-

Sd. A. G. McCall,
Superintendent,
Lushai Hills.

NOTICE

Certain leading Lushais have made proposals to me that residents of the Lushai Hills might like to subscribe towards a memorial to the late Major W. H. Tilbury M. C. A. C. S. Subdivisional officer, Lungleh, This officer died within the Lushai Hills, after many years happy service, and I for one consider such a proposal very favourable.

Mr. Jarman and Mr. Peters have kindly consented to receive any subcriptions to this end, which residents may wish to offer. Receipts for all sums received will be given signed by officers personally.

Times are hard and to place Lushai residents on a comfortable and equal footing. I propose that Lushais who are desirous of subscribing should subscribe through their own chiefs. I should feel it advisable for a maximum sum payable from any particular chief to be limited to an amount not to exceed 2 annas per house in his village.

Full lists of all subscriptions paid would be published in consecutive numbers of the Chanchinbu issues.

I anticipate that space will not allow any record on the memorial of the names of those who actually subscribed out as far as possible a form of record will be devised representative as far as possible of the different bodies of subscribers.

I have drawn up plans and estimates for a memorial which I hope will be pleasing and acceptable to Mrs. Tilbury, to whom these are being sent for her consideration, but the achievement of such a memorial depends on the subscriptions raised.

The offer of these subscriptions is purely voluntary and this notice is published as there may be many friends of the late Major Tilbury who would wish to join together in this way to commemorate the existence of one who loved the Lushais, the Lushai Hills, and whose remains will be kept in their trust and keeping forever.

Sd. A. G. McCall,
Superintendent,
Lushai Hills.
